

CINEMA STUDIES (CINE)

CINE 1004 (c) Film Noir

Ann Kibbie.

Non-Standard Rotation. Fall 2023. Enrollment limit: 16.

Explores, by focusing on a selection of films made in Hollywood during the 1940s and 1950s, the development of what will become known as film noir. Considers some of the hard-boiled detective films most famously associated with this category, as well as lesser-known films in which the dangerous forces of noir (evil, violence, and corruption) threaten to destroy the post-World War II fantasy of the American family. Films may include Murder, My Sweet; Out of the Past; Double Indemnity; Gun Crazy; In a Lonely Place; The Reckless Moment; and Panic in the Streets. (Same as: ENGL 1004)

CINE 1020 (c) Japanese Animation: History, Culture, Society

Vjayanthi Selinger.

Non-Standard Rotation. Fall 2023. Enrollment limit: 16.

Animation is a dominant cultural force in Japan and perhaps its most important cultural export. Examines the ways Japanese animation represents Japan's history and society and the diverse ways in which it is consumed abroad. How does animation showcase Japanese views of childhood, sexuality, national identity, and gender roles? How does its mode of story-telling build upon traditional pictorial forms in Japan? Focuses on the aesthetic, thematic, social, and historical characteristics of Japanese animation films; provides a broad survey of the place of animation in twentieth-century Japan. Films include "Grave of Fireflies," "Spirited Away," "Ghost in the Shell," "Akira," and "Princess Kaguya." (Same as: ASNS 1020)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2020.

CINE 1025 (c) Crime Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 16.

Considers gangster films in depth, exploring how popular narrative film manages the threat posed by the criminal's racial, ethnic, or gender difference. Examines shifts in the genre's popularity and assesses the implications of considering genre entertainment art. Weekly writing, extensive reading, and mandatory attendance at evening film screenings.

Previous terms offered: Fall 2021.

CINE 1027 (c) From Flowers of Evil to Pretty Woman: Prostitutes in Modern Western Culture

Jill Smith.

Non-Standard Rotation. Fall 2023. Enrollment limit: 16.

Explores the myriad ways that prostitutes have been represented in modern Western culture from the middle of the nineteenth century to the present. By analyzing literary texts, visual artworks, and films from Europe and the United States, examines prostitution as a complex urban phenomenon and a vehicle through which artists and writers grapple with issues of labor, morality, sexuality, and gender roles. Introduces students to a variety of literary, artistic, musical, and filmic genres, as well as to different disciplinary approaches to the study of prostitution. Authors, artists, and film directors may include Baudelaire, Toulouse-Lautrec, Kirchner, Wedekind, Pabst, Marshall, Scorsese, Spielmann, and Sting. (Same as: GER 1027, GSWS 1027)

CINE 1101 (c, VPA) Film Narrative

Aviva Briefel.

Every Year. Fall 2023. Enrollment limit: 50.

An introduction to a variety of methods used to study motion pictures, with consideration given to films from different countries and time periods. Examines techniques and strategies used to construct films, including mise-en-scène, editing, sound, and the orchestration of film techniques in larger formal systems. Surveys some of the contextual factors shaping individual films and our experiences of them (including mode of production, genre, authorship, and ideology). No previous experience with film studies is required.

CINE 1118 (c) Introduction to Media Studies

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 50.

What does it mean when we say that we live in the age of media? First, we will examine some of the classical theoretical texts that define the study of media and look at new forms of modern mass media that emerged in the twentieth century, such as radio and television. Later, we will look more closely at our contemporary world of computerized media and information technology, including software and social media. Throughout the course, we will examine the factors that influence media as well as the ways in which media influences society and individuals. Texts include films by Jordan Peele, Ryan Coogler, Allan J. Pakula, Sidney Lumet, and Billy Wilder, students' own social media practices, and theoretical texts by Marshall McLuhan, Friedrich Kittler, and Alexander R. Galloway. (Same as: ENGL 1118)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2021.

CINE 1151 (c, VPA) Acting for the Camera

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 16.

Acting for the Camera introduces students to the intellectual, vocal, physical and emotional challenge of the acting process, distilled for on-camera work. Students will learn and practice exercises examining human behavior within the camera's frame and moment-to-moment storytelling. They will create on-screen acting projects, then analyze their own and peers' work while also studying celebrated professionals' work within the art of acting on camera. Students will also learn the language of the screenplay and how to analyze it for acting clues, learning, developing and deploying new techniques that help translate that analysis into embodied performance. (Same as: THTR 1151)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2020.

CINE 1152 (c, IP, VPA) Berlin: Sin City, Divided City, City of the Future
Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 50.

An examination of literary, artistic, and cinematic representations of the city of Berlin during three distinct time periods: the "Roaring 20s," the Cold War, and the post-Wall period. Explores the dramatic cultural, political, and physical transformations that Berlin underwent during the twentieth century and thereby illustrates the central role that Berlin played, and continues to play, in European history and culture, as well as in the American cultural imagination. For each time period studied, compares Anglo-American representations of Berlin with those produced by German artists and writers, and investigates how, why, and to what extent Berlin has retained its status as one of the most quintessentially modern cities in the world. No knowledge of German is required. Note: Fulfills the non-US cinema requirement for cinema studies minors. (Same as: GER 1152)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2020.

CINE 1161 (c, VPA) Introduction to Film Music

Vineet Shende.

Every Other Year. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 50.

From silent films (which were always accompanied with music and were therefore never really "Silent") to today's computer enhanced blockbusters, music has always been an integral part of cinema, allowing for suspension of disbelief, establishing mood and emotion, and cogenerating narrative. Through lectures and film viewings, discussion sections, small group projects, and readings (hyperlinked to movie clips), students in this course will gain the ability to critically analyze the musical language of cinema and understand how its related aesthetics, technology, and economics have changed over the last 100 years. Films studied will include works scored by Desplat, Herrmann, Junkie XL, Korngold, Ligeti, Public Enemy, Raskin, Simon, Tamar-Kali, Vangelis, and Williams. (Same as: MUS 1261)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2021, Fall 2020.

CINE 2075 (c, IP, VPA) Ecocinema: China's Ecological and Environmental Crisis

Every Other Spring. Enrollment limit: 35.

Examines how China's economic development has caused massive destruction to the natural world and how environmental degradation affects the lives of ordinary people. An ecological and environmental catastrophe unfolds through the camera lens in feature films and documentaries. Central topics include the interactions between urbanization and migration, humans and animals, eco-aesthetics and manufactured landscapes, local communities and globalization. Considers how cinema, as mass media and visual medium, provides ecocritical perspectives that influence ways of seeing the built environment. The connections between cinema and environmental studies enable students to explore across disciplinary as well as national boundaries. Note: Fulfills the non-US cinema requirement and the film theory requirement for cinema studies minors. (Same as: ASNS 2075, ENVS 2475)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2021, Fall 2019.

CINE 2078 (c, IP, VPA) Hollywood Imagination of Asia

Shu-chin Tsui.

Every Other Year. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 35.

How has Hollywood treated Asia and Asians? To what extent have Hollywood film productions engaged in either erotic fascination or racial prejudice, when presenting Asia as a cinematic setting and Asians as a cultural other? Examining Hollywood's imaginative visions of the east, the course takes students on an exploratory journey from classic Hollywood films to contemporary blockbusters. Issues may include race and stardom in "Shanghai Express", yellowface in "Good Earth", the exotic Asian female in "The World of Suzie Wong", stereotypes of Tibetans in "Seven Years in Tibet", and an American's perception of Tokyo in "Lost in Translation". We will also explore the Orientalist imagination through sexualized Geisha or masculinized Mulan as well as transnational crossings in the animated film "Kungfu Panda". In addition to analyzing themes and the social-cultural implications of films, the course also introduces students to the cinematic language: mise-en-scene, cinematography, and editing. Counts toward the major in Asian studies and the minor in cinema studies. (Same as: ASNS 2900)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2022, Spring 2020.

CINE 2080 (c, IP, VPA) Going Viral: The Cinema of Pandemics

Every Other Spring. Enrollment limit: 35.

The onset of COVID-19 has led to anxiety and fear in our daily lives. The spread of this infectious disease and its destructive power prompts us to look to the film screen for ways we might comprehend the urgent subject confronting us. In considering how cinema has treated pandemics, the course will exam a number of thematic categories through cinematic articulations. The topics include but are not limited to: pandemics in history, the politics of pandemics, the fantasy or horror of pandemics, pandemics in Asia, and pandemics and animals. A carefully chosen roster of films include: The Seventh Seal, Outbreak and Contagion, The Flu that Killed 50 Million, Casandra Crossing, the South Korean productions of Flu and The Train to Busan, as well as 28 Days Later and Twelve Monkeys. The course meets the requirement for a major or minor in Asian studies, as well as the minor in cinema studies. (Same as: ASNS 2078)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2023, Spring 2021.

CINE 2081 (c, DPI, VPA) Asian American Cinema

Shu-chin Tsui.

Every Other Fall. Fall 2023. Enrollment limit: 35.

Asian Americans have often been portrayed as the stereotyped other by both American cinema and mainstream media. This course presents an alternative vision and a counter-cinema: films directed by Asian American filmmakers, about Asian American experiences, and from Asian American perspectives. Themes and genres addressed include the family melodrama, the coming-of-age story, transnational migration, diasporic border-crossing, processes of racialization, and gender and sexual politics. We will explore how Asian American films recast images of Asian Americans through first-person narratives, how racial difference is reclaimed from white-centric imaginations, and how Asian American cinema as a communal practice negotiates sociocultural and institutional hegemonies. At the heart of the course is the building of an Asian American spectatorship whereby Asian Americans can view themselves on their own terms. This course is part of the college-wide Asian American initiative in 2023-2024. This course fulfills the non-US cinema and the film theory requirements for Cinema Studies minors (Same as: ASNS 2081)

CINE 2117 (c, IP, VPA) Revolutions and Its Aftermaths in Central America through Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

This course will survey the history of modern Central America, from the Nicaraguan revolution and the Salvadoran and Guatemalan armed conflicts, through film. In addition, this class will examine broader region-wide experiences such as the ownership of the Panama Canal and the assassination of key figures in Central America including Berta Cáceres in Honduras. Mainly through a variety of film genres, including historical drama, adaptations, and documentaries, this course will analyze the role of the United States in Central America, including the long history of military occupation in Nicaragua, the CIA-backed coup in Guatemala in 1954, and the financial aid provided to El Salvador and Guatemala during their civil wars. Finally, this course will explore the legacy of the violence from the twentieth century in the present. As a result, this class will address key topics such as transitional justice, migration, gangs, drug trafficking and organized crime, gender relationships, and neopopulism. (Same as: LACL 2352)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2023.

CINE 2141 (c, DPI, VPA) Gender and Sexuality in Teen Cinema

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

How does the figure of the teen mobilize different ideologies of gender, sexuality, and queerness in various genres of film? How do contemporary sociocultural circumstances affect the creation, reception, and interpretation of teen films produced throughout the decades? In this course, students will examine how different films frame, approach, and at times misrepresent adolescent experience. Students will explore how understandings of adolescence, gender, and sexuality have shifted over the decades, how teen sexuality is visually aestheticized, and how representations of gender and teen sexuality are inflected by other domains of identity such as race and class. In addition to learning how to “close read” these films, taking notions such as editing, sound, form, and style into consideration, students will explore and apply queer and feminist frameworks to unlock innovative and politically viable ways of critiquing these so-called vapid and uncritical cultural productions. Attendance at weekly evening screenings is mandatory. (Same as: GSWS 2320)

Prerequisites: GSWS 1000 - 2969 or GSWS 3000 or higher or CINE 1000 - 2969 or CINE 3000 or higher.

Previous terms offered: Fall 2022, Fall 2020.

CINE 2201 (c, VPA) History of Film 1895 to 1935

Tricia Welsch.

Every Other Fall. Fall 2023. Enrollment limit: 35.

Examines the development of film from its origins to the American studio era. Includes early work by the Lumières, Méliès, and Porter, and continues with Griffith, Murnau, Eisenstein, Chaplin, Keaton, Stroheim, Pudovkin, Lang, Renoir, and von Sternberg. Special attention is paid to the practical and theoretical concerns over the coming of sound. Attendance at weekly evening screenings is required.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2022, Fall 2020.

CINE 2202 (c, VPA) Film History 1935 to 1975

Tricia Welsch.

Every Other Spring. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 35.

A consideration of the diverse production contexts and political circumstances influencing cinema history in the sound era. National film movements to be studied include Neorealism, the French New Wave, and the New German Cinema, as well as the coming of age of Asian and Australian film. Also explores the shift away from studio production in the United States, the major regulatory systems, and the changes in popular film genres. Attendance at weekly evening screenings is required.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2021.

CINE 2203 (c, VPA) Film History 1975-Present

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Focuses on developments in filmmaking over the last fifty years, including international trends in the uses of film as a storytelling medium and in the global film market. Examines the rise of New Hollywood and the Movie Brats in the 1970s amid the decline of the big studios, as well as the emergence of alternatives to classical Hollywood filmmaking in Europe, Russia, Africa, and Asia and the Pacific Rim. Considers the responses of twenty-first-century filmmakers to the terrorism, financial disaster, immigration crises, and uncertain political leadership of recent decades. Examines modern technologies that have affected how films are made and consumed, from videocassettes in the 1980s to contemporary streaming services. Explores intense disruptions of the COVID-19 pandemic for filmmaking and across national cinemas. Attendance at weekly evening film screenings required. Fulfills the film history requirement for Cinema Studies minors.

Prerequisites: CINE 1000 - 2969 or CINE 3000 or higher.

Previous terms offered: Fall 2022.

CINE 2222 (c, VPA) Images of America in Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Explores American culture and history by looking at studio- and independently-produced films. Topics include sex and race relations, ethnicity and the American Dream, work and money and their role in self-definition, war and nostalgia, and celebrity and the role of Hollywood in the national imagination. Attendance at weekly evening screenings is required.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2020.

CINE 2224 (c, VPA) The Films of Alfred Hitchcock

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Considers the films of Alfred Hitchcock from his career in British silent cinema to the Hollywood productions of the 1970s. Examines his working methods and style of visual composition, as well as consistent themes and characterizations. Of particular interest is his adaptation of Daphne du Maurier's “Rebecca” as a way of exploring the tensions between literary sources and film, and between British and American production contexts. Ends with a brief look at Hitchcock's television career and his influence on recent film. Attendance at weekly evening screenings is required.

Prerequisites: CINE 1101 or CINE 2201 or CINE 2202.

Previous terms offered: Fall 2021.

CINE 2252 (c, IP, VPA) British Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Surveys the first hundred years of British cinema from the silent period to contemporary films. Topics covered: invention of cinema and patterns of movie-going in the United Kingdom; work of important directors and producers (Alfred Hitchcock, Carol Reed, Alexander Korda); changes brought by World War II; the Angry Young Men of the 50s and 60s; and recent developments (heritage films, postcolonial perspectives, Scottish film). Attendance at weekly evening screenings is required. Note: Fulfills the non-US cinema requirement for Cinema Studies minors. Fulfills the non-US cinema requirement for Cinema Studies minors

Previous terms offered: Spring 2021.

CINE 2261 (c) Gender, Film, and Consumer Culture

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

How do we spend money, and why? Examines the relationship between gender and consumer culture over the course of the twentieth century. Explores women's and men's relationships to consumer culture in a variety of contexts: the heterosexual household, the bachelor pad, the gay-friendly urban cafeteria, the advertising agency, and the department store. Also explores the ways in which Hollywood films, from the 1930s to the present, have both furthered and complicated gendered notions about the consumption of goods. (Same as: GSWS 2261)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2020.

CINE 2263 (c, DPI, VPA) Documentary and Nonfiction Storytelling: Theories and Forms

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Examines a diverse range of nonfiction media from past to present. Films will be read as both discrete works of cinema and as socio-political objects. In addition to surveying milestones from the global documentary tradition and emergent digital practices, this course also explores works that use nonfiction footage in ways distinct from popular modes of documentary, such as city symphonies and found footage films, as well as more prosaic nonfiction modes such as newsreels, propaganda, and science films. The course pursues several related modes of inquiry: What aesthetic techniques have filmmakers employed to represent reality? How have filmmakers and scholars theorized documentary practice and ethics? And how has nonfiction filmmaking been conceived of as ideologically "useful"? This is accomplished through close readings of film and written texts, in-class discussion, written responses, and longer analytical papers. Fulfills the film theory requirement for cinema studies minors. Attendance at weekly evening screenings is required.

Previous terms offered: Fall 2022.

CINE 2270 (c) The Woman's Film

Every Other Year. Enrollment limit: 35.

Concentrating in large part on the classical Hollywood period, we will explore films that center on women's experiences and that are (or seem to be) intended for a female audience. We will examine the genres of melodrama, film noir, gothic, and comedy in relation to the performance of female identity; representations of gender, class, race, and sexuality; and theories of spectatorial identification. The last part of the class will consider ways in which contemporary women's films draw on and reconfigure the themes brought up by earlier narratives. Directors might include Arzner, Cukor, Haynes, Hitchcock, Mankiewicz, Varda, and Vidor. (Same as: GSWS 2273)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2021.

CINE 2271 (c) The Blockbuster: The Art, Commerce, and Politics of Popular Filmmaking

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Hollywood has become synonymous with the blockbuster, a category defined by big expectations — big budgets, big special effects, big stars, big marketing campaigns, and big controversies. This course examines this ubiquitous mode of film production by approaching it as a formal style, industrial strategy, mode of production, and cultural phenomenon. The course explores cinema's history as spectacle and topics including narrative conventions, special effects, franchises, transmedia storytelling, and fandom. Films will be read alongside media paratexts (such as trailers and merchandising) that position these products in the marketplace. The course also addresses how blockbusters have become visible sites for efforts to reform Hollywood culture in response to demands for racial, gender, and pay equity. In this multivalent approach, this course explores the conditions that inform the past, present, and potential futures of American commercial filmmaking on a global scale.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2023.

CINE 2272 (c, DPI, VPA) American Feminist Film History

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

This course explores U.S. film history by surveying the contributions of women directors, actresses, and behind-the-scenes workers from the silent era to the 1990s. The course investigates a range of questions: What types of work have women performed? How have political, cultural, and industrial factors shaped opportunities available to women? How have women produced and experienced racial, ethnic, gender, and sexual identities on screen and in the workplace? How has difference affected opportunities available to women and the stories that get to be told? Are there distinctive stylistic or narrative preoccupations that characterize made by women? What does it mean to practice feminist filmmaking, criticism, and history? How might highlighting the experiences of women in the film world empower us to rewrite dominant film histories? To address these questions, the course surveys a range of feature films, documentaries, and experimental works created by both the renowned and the unsung. (Same as: GSWS 2272)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2023.

CINE 2416 (c) Race and Memory in Southern Literature and Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 16.

"The past is never dead. It's not even past." William Faulkner Intermediate Seminar. The American South is haunted by its history. Decades of Indian removal and nearly 250 years of enslavement of Africans and African-Americans resulted in hierarchies of race, which are woven into the poetry, music, literature and film of the South. This course explores literature and film of and about the American South (1920-2021) with a focus on the tangled intersections of race and memory. Literary works may include William Faulkner, Kiese Laymon, Eudora Welty, Alice Walker, Flannery O'Connor, Jesmyn Ward, Natasha Trethewey, Jean Toomer, and Leanne Howe. Films may include Birth of a Nation (Parker), Get Out (Peele), In the Heat of the Night (Jewison), Moonlight (Jenkins), Big Fish (Burton), Beasts of the Southern Wild (Zeitlin), Mississippi Burning (Parker), and Selma (DuVernay). Intermediate Seminar. (IRBW) Note: Beginning with the Class of 2025, this class will fulfill the African American, Asian American, Indigenous, Latinx, multiethnic American, or global literature requirement for English majors. (Same as: ENGL 2016)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2022.

CINE 2426 (c) The Horror Film in Context

Aviva Briefel.

Non-Standard Rotation. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 35.

Examines the genre of the horror film in a range of cultural, theoretical, and literary contexts. Considers the ways in which horror films represent violence, fear, and paranoia; their creation of identity categories; their intersection with contemporary politics; and their participation in such major literary and cinematic genres as the gothic, comedy, and family drama. Texts may include works by Craven, Cronenberg, De Palma, Freud, Hitchcock, Kristeva, Kubrick, Poe, Romero, and Shelley. Note: Fulfills the film theory requirement for Cinema Studies minors. (Same as: ENGL 2426, GSWS 2426)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2021, Fall 2019.

CINE 2428 (c, VPA) Introduction to Film Theory

Ann Kibbie.

Non-Standard Rotation. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 35.

A survey of some of the major currents in film theory from the early days of motion pictures to the present, including formalism, genre theory, auteur theory, psychoanalytic theory, feminist theory, and queer theory. Includes mandatory evening film screenings; a choice of two screening times available for each film. Note: Fulfills the film theory requirement for cinema studies minors.. (Same as: ENGL 2428)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2022, Spring 2020.

CINE 2502 (c, VPA) Film Scoring

Every Other Year. Enrollment limit: 35.

The celebrated German film director Fatih Akin has stated, "Film is a two dimensional thing—it goes up and down and left to right but if you put music into that two dimensional medium, it acquires a third, fourth, and fifth dimension." This course will explore the myriad ways that music creates deeper meaning in film. This will be accomplished through both analysis of preexisting films scores and composing original music for five common filmic categories: establishing sequences, montage sequences, dialogue underscoring, and action and love scenes. Students will need to be able to read music notation. (Same as: MUS 2502)

Prerequisites: MUS 1401 or MUS 2403 or CINE 1000 - 2969 or CINE 3000 or higher.

Previous terms offered: Fall 2022.

CINE 2553 (c, VPA) Italy's Cinema of Social Engagement

Every Other Spring. Enrollment limit: 35.

An introduction to Italian cinema with an emphasis on Neorealism and its relationship to other genres, including Comedy Italian Style, the Spaghetti Western, the horror film, the "mondo" (shock documentary), and mafia movies, among others. Readings and discussions situate films within their social and historical contexts, and explore contemporary critical debates about the place of radical politics in Italian cinema (a hallmark of Neorealism), the division between art films and popular cinema, and the relevance of the concept of an Italian national cinema in an increasingly globalized world. No prerequisite required. Taught in English (films screened in Italian with English subtitles). Note: Fulfills the non-US cinema requirement for cinema studies minors. (Same as: ITAL 2553)

Previous terms offered: Spring 2023.

CINE 2603 (c, IP, VPA) Memory in Contemporary Russian and East European Cinema

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Examines the subject of collective memory and reconstructions of the past in post-socialist Eastern European cinema, focusing primarily on Russian-language films. How does this area of the world, with its fraught histories of wars, revolutions and other social upheavals, describe or inscribe the past in recent films, from the historical blockbuster to more intimate contemporary narratives haunted by past events? And how do these films about the darkest episodes of the region's history shed light on the ways in which we either commemorate or repress historical traumas in our own culture(s) today? Scholarship on nostalgia, cultural taboos, repressed memory, reconciliation, and collective memory will help us to form a complex understanding of how filmmakers not only represent the past in their work, but also recreate it anew on the screen in order to fit the needs of the current moment. (Same as: RUS 2413)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2022.

CINE 2645 (VPA) Filmmaking and Born-Digital Storytelling

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 18.

Considers filmmaking in a networked world, as well as the cultural implications of new technologies. Students will create innovative, internet-based films that engage in the changing digital landscape of ubiquitous computing. Students will learn the basics of film production, including digital camera operation, sound recording, lighting, nonlinear editing, basic compositing, and green screen—tools needed to create compelling films, interactive videos, VR and AR experiences, and innovative transmedia projects. Additionally, students will study the history and proliferation of cinema engaged with digital technologies and the internet. (Same as: DCS 2645)

Prerequisites: DCS 1000 - 2969 or DCS 3000 or higher or CINE 1000 - 2969 or CINE 3000 or higher.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2021, Fall 2019.

CINE 2831 (b, IP) Ethnographic Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 35.

Considers the development of ethnographic film from an anthropological lens and international perspectives. Starting with the advent of the documentary and concluding with ethnographic new media, investigates how, why, and to what end film has been used as a tool by anthropologists and the communities that they work with to expand discussions about the modern world. Topics include filmmaking as a methodology for social scientists, the connections between ethnographic film and self-determination efforts in minority communities, critical examinations of media-making practices—onscreen and off—and the global impact these factors have had. (Same as: ANTH 2340)

Prerequisites: ANTH 1100 or ANTH 1101 or SOC 1101 or CINE 1101.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2022, Fall 2020, Fall 2019.

CINE 2832 (b, IP) Global Indigenous Cinema

Every Other Year. Enrollment limit: 35.

Surveys Indigenous-produced film from around the globe, with an emphasis on contemporary Native North American and Aboriginal Australian cinema. Engages recent technological innovations in filmmaking. Analyzes film through discussion and writing, pairing screenings with readings of anthropological and Indigenous scholarship. Considers film in relation to the social, historical, and cultural contexts and broader global processes of indigenous media production and circulation. (Same as: ANTH 2350)

Prerequisites: ANTH 1000 - 2969 or ANTH 3000 or higher or CINE 1000 - 2969 or CINE 3000 or higher or SOC 1101.

Previous terms offered: Spring 2023, Spring 2021.

CINE 2860 (c) Character, Plot, Scene, Theme, Dream: The Fundamentals of Screenwriting

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 12.

Introduction to the basic practices of writing for the screen, including concepts, techniques, and predictable problems. Students study and analyze films and scripts from the perspective of the screenwriter and complete a writing project of their own. Note: Fulfills the creative writing concentration requirement for English majors. (Same as: ENGL 2860)

Previous terms offered: Fall 2022, Fall 2021, Fall 2020, Fall 2019.

CINE 2900 (c, IP, VPA) Terrorists and Spies, Borders and Bridges: Highlights of German Cinema since 1980

Birgit Tautz.

Non-Standard Rotation. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 35.

Examines the particular ways in which, in the aftermath of New German Cinema (NGC), the cinematic medium constructs protagonists of mass appeal (terrorists, spies, slackers, etc.) while moving beyond the limits and possibilities of a national cinematic tradition and toward a European (and global) cinematic language. Pays special attention to historical advancement, over the past four decades, of material conditions of film production, distribution, and reception as well as to the development of cinematic genres, techniques, and effects that cinema has on other art forms. Filmmakers/films may include von Trotta ("Marianne and Juliane"), Petersen ("Das Boot," "The Neverending Story"), von Donnermarck ("Lives of Others"), Wolf ("Solo Sunny"), Schlöndorff ("The Legend of Rita"), Misselwitz ("Winter adé"), Edel ("Baader-Meinhof Complex"), Hirschbiegel ("Downfall"), Ade ("Forest for the Trees," "Toni Erdmann"), Link ("Nowhere in Africa"), Petzold ("Yella," "Barbara"), Tykwer ("Run Lola Run," "Three"), Schmid ("Distant Lights"), Dresen ("Stopped on Track"), Dörrie ("Men," "Nobody Loves Me"), Ruzowitsky ("Counterfeiters"), Maccarone ("Veiled"), Akin ("Edge of Heaven," "The Cut"), Gerster ("A Coffee in Berlin"), Schipper ("Victoria"). CINE 3053 (c, IP, VPA) China's Cultural Revolution through Film

Non-Standard Rotation. Enrollment limit: 16.

Examines China's Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution (1966-1976) through the lens of cinema. Viewed as one of the most destructive mass movements in China's modern history, the CR dramatically shaped national politics and deeply affected the life of ordinary people. With film productions made during and after the CR as primary materials, the course seeks to explain the nature of the Cultural Revolution as well as how motion pictures (re)construct CR rhetoric and why the CR remains a source of trauma that haunts the memories of those who experienced it. Popular film titles such as "The White Haired Girl", "To Live", "Farewell My Concubine", and others will lead students on a journey through history via the cinemas of socialist model operas, post-socialist retrospections, and alternative re-constructions. The course aims to be intellectually thought-provoking and cinematically engaging. Note: The course fulfills the major in Asian studies and minor in Chinese. It also fulfills the non-US cinema requirement for cinema studies minors (Same as: ASNS 3080)

Prerequisites: ASNS 1000 - 2969 or ASNS 3000 or higher or CINE 1000 - 2969 or CINE 3000 or higher.

CINE 3395 (c, IP) Global Germany?

Jill Smith.

Non-Standard Rotation. Spring 2024. Enrollment limit: 15.

The fall of the Berlin Wall and the concomitant end of the Cold War ushered in what many cultural critics call the era of globalization. An exploration of how contemporary German culture (1990-present) grapples with both the possibilities and uncertainties presented by globalization. Examines a myriad of cultural texts – films, audio plays, dramas, short fiction, novels, photographs, websites – as well as mass events (i.e., the Love Parade, the 2006 World Cup) within their political, social, and economic contexts to show how Germany's troubled past continues to affect the role it plays on the global stage and how its changing demographics – increased urbanization and ethnic diversity – have altered its cultural and literary landscape. Critically considers issues such as migration, terrorism and genocide, sex tourism, the formation of the European Union, and the supposed decline of the nation-state. Frequent short writings, participation in debates, and a final research project based upon a relevant topic of individual interest are required. All materials and course work in German. (Same as: GER 3397)

Prerequisites: GER 2204 - 2969 or GER 3000 or higher or Placement in GER 3000 level.
